

Blue Hill Supports CA World 2014

August 5, 2014

For more than ten years, CA World has drawn thousands of IT management professionals and partners to discover new trends, receive valuable training and learn about new products, ideas and solutions that can resolve the future of our business. But most of all, this event has provided an opportunity to network with high-value attendees. In fact, close to 90 percent of the attendees are directly involved in the purchase and implementation of their organization's technology.

"As we continue to grow our customer base, our partnership with CA Technologies represents a critical piece of this strategy. Our participation at CA World is essential to our efforts to build automation and innovation for our customers- and, it's great forum for networking with key technologist and senior management. We look forward to CA World '14!" – Tom Laudati, Chief Technology Officer, as quoted in CA World 2014 Prospectus
