Blue Hill Participates in the Gartner Data Center Infrastructure and Operations Management Summit

This Gartner Summit, held on December 1, 2017, was well attended with over 140 analyst-led sessions, and nearly 2,600 data center and Infrastructure and Operations leaders. The sessions addressed both the technical and non-technical components of seismic, nonstop change – and proactively seizes every opportunity for innovation.

Executive Director of Business Development and Chief Marketing Officer, Rosary De Filippis, participated in the 36th Annual Gartner Data Center Infrastructure and Operations Management Summit. The event's theme, "The Power of Connection: Leadership, Partnership, and Technology," provided a framework for prioritizing projects and initiatives, strategies for managing ongoing disruption and volatility, and guidelines for creating and sustaining an Infrastructure and Operations culture that supports the need for a digital business.

Gartner is a strategic partner of Blue Hill Data Services and the strong vision shared by Gartner's top analysts has significantly helped Blue Hill continue to grow its client base.

"We understand our clients have the need to better adapt to meeting their business requirements while being cost efficient, and we utilize Gartner's research and talent to help frame our strategies in order to help our clients do just that." Rosary De Filippis, Executive Director of Business Development and Chief Marketing Officer of Blue Hill Data Services/CAPS/XyberNET.
